Widow gets $14 million windfall

Husband's ghost leaves winning Lotto numbers on wife's answering machine!

SYDNEY, Australia — Widowed mom Theresa Lowe was flat broke until she won $14 million in the Australian Lotto — by playing numbers that a ghostly voice left on her telephone answering machine!

By RANDY JEFFRIES
Weekly World News

"I know it was the ghost of George, my husband," says the newly rich mother of three. "He died in a fire four years ago.

"When I heard those six numbers, I got an irresistible urge to play them in the Lotto.

"The feeling was so strong that I wasn't even surprised when the numbers won — I just knew they were going to."

Mrs. Lowe was two months behind in her rent and was facing eviction before her incredible stroke of luck.

"I had no idea how I'd feed my children or where we'd live," said the 36-year-old unemployed former factory worker.

"I got home from a job interview and checked my answering machine to see if there were any job offers. There was only one message, spoken in that familiar voice.

"He said, 'Here are the numbers: 6, 19, 23, 27, 31 and 42.' He didn't mention the lottery but I somehow knew that's what he was telling me."

Best friend and part-time babysitter Mrs. Delia Woods describes Mrs. Lowe as a woman who's normally cautious with money.

"I was going to buy a lottery ticket I couldn't believe my ears. To the best of my knowledge she'd never played the Lotto before in her life.

"I told her that as broke as she was, she couldn't afford to go gambling her money away. But nothing I could say would change her mind."

Mrs. Lowe says having the money to provide for her children's welfare and education is a great relief. She intends to send them to the best schools.

But she also plans to use $5 million of her new fortune to set up a charity for other single moms who have fallen on hard times.

"I know how hard it can be for single mothers. Now I can give back some of the good fortune that has been given to me," she says. "I know that's what George would have wanted."

WIDOW Theresa Lowe played the lottery numbers given to her by her dead husband — and she won!

JAWS MURDERED!

Mob of sicko tourists beats great white shark to death

By ANN VICTORIA/Weekly World News

CAPE TOWN, South Africa — A mob of 100 bloodthirsty tourists — including men, women and children — lured a sick shark into shallow water, then savagely beat it to death with steel rods, clubs, knives and even their fists!

Animal-rights groups worldwide are calling the death of the 14-foot great white "murder." And they want something done about it.

Great white sharks are protected by South African law because their numbers are dwindling. This one was apparently suffering from a bacterial infection that caused it to become disoriented. It accidentally came too close to shore and was lured closer by bathers who teased it by waving jewelry, tossing beach balls and flapping bright T-shirts and other gaudy personal articles of clothing.

Now the idiots face jail because they killed an endangered species!

When it became stranded in the shallows, the mob converged on it. They eventually brought it up to the beach and brutalized it for more than an hour.

"These people are beneath contempt," said environmental activist Rolf Tomkin, who was present when the attack took place.

"There was nothing I could do to stop them. It wasn't doing anything to them. But they threw themselves at it mercilessly. Some of them had clubs, steel rods or knives. Some attacked it with makeshift weapons, using belts, combs, even fingernail files. Others, when the shark was weakened enough, just pounded on it with their fists.

"I saw one woman actually hand her toddler a knife and say, 'Go ahead, son, get the mean shark.' And the boy began stabbing it."

Tomkin says most people don't realize that great white sharks play an important part in the balance of nature — that they are every bit as important to the environment as whales and dolphins are.

"These people should be brought before a court and made to answer for their crime," Tomkin told reporters. "Instead, they're being hailed as heroes and slapping each other on the back.

"It makes me sick to my stomach."

Nursing baby bites into mom's silicone boob — & ends up in the hospital!

KEVIN CREED / Weekly World News

BOOBY TRAP: Alise Rosseau nearly died after biting into her mom's silicone breast.

PARIS — A woman is suing her plastic surgeon for $1 million after her breast-feeding baby bit into her boob, ingested silicone from her implant and became gravely ill!

Jacqueline Rosseau, 24, says her 16-month-old daughter Alise nearly died after sinking her teeth into her right breast, puncturing the implant and swallowing a mouthful of silicone.

Mrs. Rosseau, a department-store model, rushed little Alise to the hospital later that night after she suffered a severe allergic reaction and had to have her stomach pumped to remove the silicone.

She later brought suit against her cosmetic surgeon Dr. Louis Montand, 32, because he never warned her of the possibility that such a mishap could occur.

HEALTH-CONSCIOUS mom Jacqueline Rosseau thought breast-feeding her little baby Alise would help her grow to be strong and healthy.

Dr. Montand's lawyers are calling the suit "utterly ridiculous."

"In the first place, Mrs. Rosseau should have known better than to breast-feed a child who had a tendecy to bite," said lead attorney Pierre Roulet, in a statement issued to the press. "And in the second place, there is no evidence to link the baby's illness directly to the silicone."

Roulet points out that Mrs. Rosseau signed a waiver, holding Dr. Montand blameless for any problems resulting from the implant.

But French legal experts say Mrs. Rosseau could have a strong case.

"Despite the waiver, the European judicial system is very sentimental about children," said one analyst.

Now she's suing for $1 million — 'cause surgeon didn't warn her about kids with sharp teeth!

"If she were suing for a leaky breast implant or another problem relating only to herself, she would probably not stir the hearts of a civil court. But a judge may be moved to penalize a negligent doctor when his failure to disclose information contributes to the illness of a baby."

Dangerous depression or just the blues?

NEW TEST TELLS WHICH ONE!

Nearly everyone gets depressed at one time or another — but you can tell a serious case from a simple bout with the blues by following a 10-point checklist from experts.

By GRAHAM WILLS
Weekly World News

Read the following list of warning signs, then check off each one that applies to you, and which has persisted for more than two weeks:

- Change in sleep pattern — including difficulty sleeping or sleeping too much.
- An unexpected weight change or loss of appetite.
- All-consuming feelings of guilt over a minor matter.
- Serious loss of self-esteem or a feeling of worthlessness.
- Inability to concentrate on simple things, like reading a book or writing a note.
- Loss of interest in favorite pastimes, such as going to the movies, taking walks or playing tennis.
- Loss of interest in sex, or even in being intimate with a loved one.
- Increased fatigue or agitation, either being constantly tired or full of nervous energy.
- Suicidal thoughts — considering death as a way of solving your problems.
- Actual planning of suicide, thinking of how you will kill yourself, giving away your possessions in preparation for it.

Anyone may suffer some of these symptoms from time to time, said Dr. Susan Blumenthal, an expert in suicide research — but if you checked off four or more of the above symptoms or are thinking seriously about suicide, you should seek help.

If you're over 50, see a medical doctor to make certain no physical illness is causing the depression, added pharmacologist Dr. William Potter. If you're younger and healthy, see a psychiatrist.

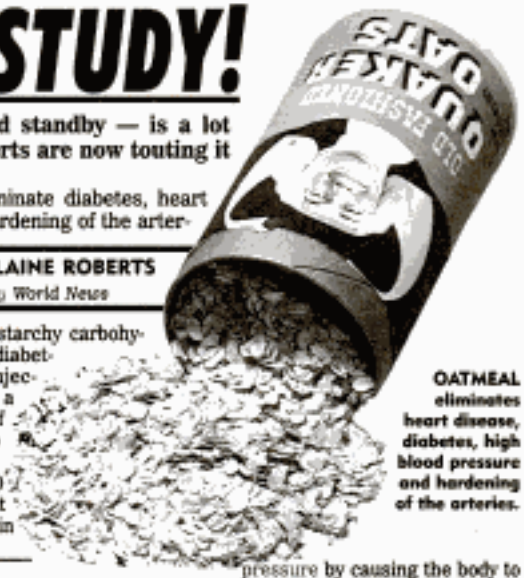
DOCTORS HAIL OATMEAL AS WONDER CURE AFTER 10-YEAR STUDY!

Oatmeal — Grandma's old standby — is a lot more than just breakfast: Experts are now touting it as a wonder cure!

The high-fiber food helps eliminate diabetes, heart disease, high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries — diseases which affect over one-half of all Americans, say experts.

By ELAINE ROBERTS
Weekly World News



OATMEAL eliminates heart disease, diabetes, high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries.

"Ten years of research have convinced me that a rigorous diet of starchy carbohydrates, particularly oatmeal, can free diabetic patients from years of insulin injections," said Dr. James W. Anderson, a professor of medicine and author of Diabetes: A Practical New Guide to Healthy Living.

"In a carefully controlled study of 50 adult diabetic patients, we found that 60 to 90 percent could come off insulin by following a special oat diet."

Dr. Anderson's diet includes one large bowl of oatmeal at breakfast and two servings of dried beans or two oat bran muffins later in the day, as well as vegetables, fruit, beef, fish and other nutritious foods.

He explained the magical effect of oatmeal:

"Acids produced in the body from the gummy fiber of oatmeal shut off the body's excessive production of sugar from proteins and other sources, thus lowering and stabilizing blood sugar — which is vital for diabetics."

Eating oatmeal can also reduce the body's cholesterol level, said Dr. Anderson. "It does this by causing the body to excrete more cholesterol and by producing gases which inhibit the liver from producing cholesterol."

Oatmeal has also been shown to reduce high blood pressure by causing the body to excrete salt, added Dr. Anderson.

"If this isn't enough to convince you it's a wonder cure, oatmeal also prevents hardening of the arteries.

"And for people not suffering from any of these diseases, I think one bowl of oatmeal could be a good preventative against getting these diseases.

"Oatmeal is one of the healthiest foods available!"

A 'night out with the girls' the key to a happy marriage, say experts

A wife's occasional "night out with the girls" makes for a happier woman and can actually strengthen a marriage, say two top psychologists!

"Wives, especially those with children, generally have more stresses and work longer hours than their husbands," declared Dr. Elayne Kahn, a noted expert.

"So they need their nights out more than their husbands do. And those nights can improve marriages.

"Because many women are stuck in their homes for days on end, they feel like prisoners," Dr. Kahn explained. "They periodically break out of her prison."

Getting out with the girls and talking over mutual problems relieves this stress and heightens a wife's self-confidence, Dr. Judith Meyerowitz added.

"This improves a wife's self-image — and can strengthen marriages."

What's more, pointed out Dr. Kahn, when a wife has a night out, "her husband becomes more homework, bath and bedtime. He has to experience what she does all day — and that makes him more understanding."

As an added bonus, Dr. Kahn revealed, "Women tell me that after a night out with the girls they're excited to see their husbands. The husbands are excited, too."

A husband and wife have had a chance to miss each other, Dr. Kahn said, to appreciate each other more — and

MAN SUES GAL WHO SAVED HIS LIFE . . . because she popped his eyes out with the Heimlich maneuver!

By KEVIN CREED / Weekly World News

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — A man is suing the woman who saved his life with the Heimlich maneuver — because she used too much force and popped his eyes out!

Doctors say James Granniby, 36, was blinded when waitress Lily Waltrocks squeezed his midsection with tremendous force. The maneuver ejected the piece of hamburger that was stuck in Granniby's throat. But unfortunately the hearty squeeze also dislodged both his eyes from their sockets. The eyes were set back in place but the optic nerves and blood vessels have been irreparably damaged.

Witnesses agree that Granniby was choking and would have died without the quick thinking of Mrs. Waltrocks, 42.

"People call me ungrateful," says Granniby, a former truck driver. "But I'd like to see how they'd feel about facing life without sight.

"I'm glad she saved my life but she didn't have to squeeze me so hard. It was irresponsible of her and I deserve to be compensated for the handicap that she inflicted on me."

FORMER TRUCK driver James Granniby was blinded by waitress Lily Waltrocks.

Granniby plans to ask for $2 million in damages from the restaurant where the incident occurred and intends to slap a lifetime claim on Mrs. Waltrocks for 30 percent of her salary.

"I want her to remember me every day of her life," says Granniby. "Maybe next time she sees someone choking, she'll pay a little more attention to the force she uses to save them."

Mrs. Waltrocks, a devout Christian, says she's confused by Granniby's attitude.

"I feel very sorry for him," she said. "I feel terrible that I injured his eyes. But I was only doing what I believed was right. If I had it to do over I wouldn't squeeze so hard. I just wish he wasn't so angry at me."

The case is scheduled to come to civil court in late May.

American seniors are happy folks!

A new survey reveals two-thirds of America's oldsters are happy with their lives, but only half of those between 18 and 49 can say the same thing.

"Older people are happier because they've lived their lives and made their mistakes while young people are still struggling to overcome problems," said a top psychiatrist.

Swiss laboratory offers to replace murdered beauty queen for grieving Ramsey family!

GENEVA, Switzerland — The world's leading geneticist has made a stunning offer to the grieving family of little JonBenet Ramsey: I'll clone your daughter!

Noted scientist Dr. Peter Beuhlar, touched by the tragic death of the 6-year-old beauty queen who was murdered in 1996, announced last week that he will restore the child to her mother and father "as good as new," thanks to the miracle of cloning.

"All I need is one of JonBenet's DNA cells, a human egg and the family's permission and I will reproduce that darling child," said Dr. Beuhlar, 44, who has successfully cloned monkeys, sheep and at least four humans.

"We know the DNA is available because parts of the girl's body are currently being preserved," he said. "Any number of ovulating women would be honored to donate an egg. So all we really need is a 'yes' from the Ramseys and we'll begin work immediately."

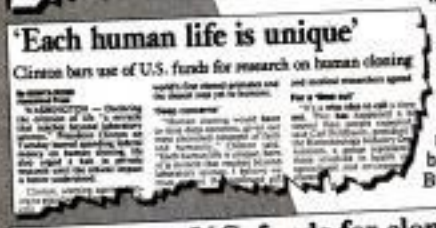
EVIL TO CLONE PEOPLE

Warns of 'frightening possibilities' that lurk

In the past year, cloning has been very much in the news. Just a short time ago, Weekly World News and other world media reported on the cloning of a woman by Boston biologist Dr. Jacob Stanuz. The NEWS story explained that the cloning had been done over a year ago and was only now being announced.

But since that crowning achievement — hailed as the first-ever cloning of a human — Dr. Beuhlar has genetically reproduced four humans.

Indeed Dr. Beuhlar may be the Ramseys' only chance since President Clinton banned the cloning of human beings in America.



'Each human life is unique'

"We have the process down pat by this time," said Dr. Beuhlar. "We simply implant little JonBenet's DNA cells into a human egg and place the egg in a specially developed artificial womb here at the lab.

"The result will be a child identical to the murdered girl in every respect. Of course she'll be a baby first — she won't spring to life as a 6-year-old. But that's even better for the grieving couple. Not only will the Ramseys have their daughter back, they'll even have the joy of raising her again."

Dr. Beuhlar says he's been unable to reach the Ramseys for comment as yet because the couple has been staying out of the public eye.

"But I feel sure they'll welcome the opportunity to have their little girl back," he says. "I have children of my own and if I were in their posi-

WORLD-EXCLUSIVE PHOTO SHOWS FIRST HUMAN VICTIM OF 'COSMIC VIRUS'

This unidentified Algerian factory worker was one of the first victims of the plague. He has since died.

Terrifying bug from outer space could kill 500 million by year 2000, warn frightened doctors!

ALIEN ORGANISM classified as RH-40, magnified millions of times.

WEEKLY WORLD NEWS MEDICAL ALERT

By GEORGE SANFORD / Weekly World News

EL DJAZIR, Algeria — Scientists here have isolated a tiny infectious organism that did not evolve on Earth, but instead originated in another solar system!

President Clinton pledges millions of dollars to find a cure — if there is one!

The mystery microbe, previously believed to be an ordinary virus, has infected more than 380 people in this troubled nation so far this year — and chillingly, the contagion is spreading so rapidly that experts say it could claim 500 million victims worldwide by the year 2000.

"These life-forms are unlike any known virus," revealed U.N. researcher Dr. Claude LaFay, leader of an international medical team probing the epidemic. "We have carefully analyzed their DNA and found that they are not related to any other living thing on Earth."

Unlike the AIDS virus, the organism — named RH-40 — can be spread by casual contact, for example a kiss, handshake or a close face-to-face conversation. The early symptoms are a rash characterized by ugly purple sores that appear first on the arms or legs and then spread quickly to the rest of the body.

Strangely, in the four weeks before death victims of tics, like those afflicted by rabies. "They experience intense fever symptoms for about 72 hours, then they become curiously passive and docile," said Dr. LaFay.

"They also take on a slightly limping gait and slurred speech, and have a tendency to wander from their beds late at night."

The microscopic organisms, average just 10 nanometers in est bacteria. "RH-40 can only be seen under a powerful electron microscope," said Dr. LaFay.

The physical characteristics of the organism are highly unusual.

Unlike viruses, which are typically either rod-shaped or spherical, RH-40 has jagged spikes like a pollen spore. "We have observed what appears to be a brain-like structure within the organism," said the scientist.

meteor. But President Clinton has promised the U.N. that America will donate more than $25 million to help find a cure for the illness, noting that "this is a problem the whole world is facing."

Oddly enough, more than half of those who have fallen victim to the contagion so far have reportedly been military and police officials — leading some frightened locals to speculate that what has become known as the "limping plague" is somehow capable of choosing new victims.

UFO buffs from around the world have been quick to jump on the discovery of the organ-were deliberately seeded on Earth.

"For years people have believed that an invasion of our planet would be carried out by large, clunky flying saucers piloted by little green men," Swiss researcher Tor Schwizer wrote in the international UFO journal Third Kind Encounters. "Instead, it seems that at least the first wave of the invading force is made up of tiny microbes too small for the eye to see."

U.N. scientists pooh-pooh the notion of a deliberate invasion, but suggest that other viruses be carefully studied. "It's certainly possible that a host of infectious organisms believed to be ordinary winter

Q Is it true that Sarah Michelle Gellar, star of TV's Buffy the Vampire Slayer, is an exhibitionist who jumps at every chance to strip naked and flaunt her curvaceous body?
— Ken O., Grand Rapids, Mich.

A No, but the bubbly blonde starlet does admit that she gets so frazzled by her busy shooting schedule, she sometimes forgets to put on clothes!

"One day when I'm driving to work, I have my top down and I'm noticing people are looking at me, and I'm thinking, 'I must be looking good today,'" Sarah told Movieline magazine.

"Then I look down and realize that I put my slip and boots on — but I never put my dress on. I completely forgot to get dressed!"

Q I heard an extremely upsetting rumor that a British producer is planning to put out a movie about Princess Diana — and has cast a porno actress to play the lead.

Please tell me that no one has had the audacity to desecrate the memory of the saintly, beloved princess.
— Gail K., Montreal, Canada

A Sorry, but Oscar-winning Chariots of Fire producer David Puttnam has picked English porn starlet Christina Hance to star as tragic Di. Curvy Christina, who hires herself out as a dominatrix when she's not making XXX-rated flicks, is a dead ringer for the late princess.

Buckingham Palace is hopping mad about the hiring of the raunchy actress, but Puttnam insists the film project will be a "loving" tribute.

FORGETS TO PUT ON CLOTHES: TV's Buffy The Vampire Slayer Sarah Michelle Gellar, above.

PORNO STAR IS A DEAD RINGER for Princess Di.

Q I really feel sorry for poor Anne Heche, the once-obscure actress who has become known to the world as the lesbian gal-pal of TV comic Ellen Degeneres.

Is she upset about being hounded by the press about the affair?
— Ben R., Little Rock, Ark.

A Far from it! Anne relishes her new role as gay poster gal. "It's pretty cool for me to be able to stand up for being whatever you want to be," she declares.

"I've had the best six months of my life." In fact, the girl-crazy 27-year-old starlet — who appears in the new movie Wag the Dog — is peeved that reporters don't show ENOUGH interest in her relationship with Ellen. "Not one person will actually mention Ellen's name in a question," she grumbles.

ZANY Ellen Degeneres' lesbian lover Anne Heche, right, loves being a gay poster gal.

Q Before super-successful director Woody Allen married Soon-Yi, the young daughter of his former lover, Mia Farrow, did he make her sign any kind of pre-nuptial agreement?
— Dawn B., Macon, Ga.

A The word in Hollywood is that before the bespectacled 62-year-old funnyman tied the knot with the 27-year-old cutie, he did demand that she sign off on an ironclad prenup. The document is said to include stipulations that his new bride live in her own apartment; visit only twice a week; give up rights to Woody's money; and most importantly, NEVER talk to her mother Mia. Soon-Yi admitted to a British magazine that her heart "sank" when Woody listed his conditions.

Q All the gorgeous starlets I know out here in Hollywood are just crazy about Wesley Snipes and are lining up for a chance to date him.

Frankly, I just don't think he's that good looking. What makes women go ga-ga for him?
— Dawn K., Los Angeles, Ca.

NOT JUST ANOTHER PRETTY FACE: Wesley Snipes.

A Besides being a rich movie star, Wesley feels he has plenty going for him that makes him a sought-after lover.

"What I may be lacking in terms of my physical beauty, I make up for in personality and experience," he says.

CEILING MIRROR IN X-RATED MOTEL FALLS

CRASH! KILLING COUPLE HAVING SEX!

CHEATERS Sabrina Mukolum and Randy Powster, above, were killed in the throes of passion. Photos of the victims were provided by family members.

By CHARLIE WHEELER
Weekly World News

LOS ANGELES — A cheating couple got what was coming to them after checking into a sleazy motel for an afternoon quickie — when a giant ceiling mirror over the bed came loose and crashed down, killing them both!

"Apparently ceiling mirrors over the bed are a big attraction at some of these hotels," said one police officer. "And this was a huge mirror, wider and longer than the entire bed."

The victims were identified as Randy Powster, 26, and Sabrina Mukolum, 23, both of Los Angeles. According to newspaper reports, both were married to other people.

"The innkeeper had rented the room to them for only two hours," a police spokesman said. "When they didn't return the room key, he went to the room and knocked on the door.

"There was no answer, so he used his master key to go inside.

"That was when he discovered the bodies."

The spokesman said the entire room was splattered with blood.

"According to everything I heard, the man and woman were having sex when the mirror crashed down on them."

Police would not elaborate on the position the couple was in when the mirror fell, but one published report stated that Mrs. Mukolum was struck on top of the head.

At press time, no charges had been filed against the owner of the motel and it was unclear what caused the mirror to come down.

Both victims were married to other people, say police!

Justice isn't blind — in fact, the better-looking you are, the less likely you are to be punished for committing a crime!

A scientific study in New York proved jurors will take it easy on Secret signals tell if someone is attracted to you, says new study!

By observing subtle, unspoken "love signals," you can tell when someone is secretly interested in you, an expert reveals.

Even a simple tilt of the head can be a tip-off that a stranger would like to make contact, said Dr. David Givens, who spent four years researching in singles bars, health clubs and other meeting places for his book Love Signals.

Here are some of the unconscious ways people express interest:

TILTING THE HEAD — "When you make eye contact with an unfamiliar person and they tilt their head to the side, it's a sign of deep interest," explained Dr. Givens, a noted anthropologist.

MIRRORING — If a person sitting near you unwittingly imitates you — crosses their legs when you do or leans back when you lean back — you can assume that they are showing an interest in you.

"It's easy to find out if someone is mirroring you," declared Dr. Givens.

"Just shift forward a bit or lean back, and see if the person follows your lead."

CROSS GAZE — "A person might gaze off to their left, then sweep their eyes across your face and gaze off to their right, repeating the movement without settling their gaze on you.

"This is a good sign the person is secretly interested in you."

EXAGGERATED GESTURES — Rather than a simple gesture, a person who'd like to catch your eye might make an elaborate gesture.

"For example, instead of a quick glance at her watch, a woman may overextend her arm, then dramatically bring the watch back to her face and tilt her head over to see the time.

"It is a subtle way for her to telegraph her wish to be spoken to."

HANDS BETWEEN THE KNEES — "This is a typical posture men take when they're speaking with women they like.

"The man will lean forward in his chair, rest his forearms on his knees and clasp his hands between his knees, looking like a blushing third-grader stretching toward his pretty teacher."

If a man sits like that across from a woman, then he is probably secretly interested in her, Dr. Givens declared.

"Although women do it also, it's more of a male thing."

LOVESICK LOOK — "The other person's eyebrows just barely rise as if the lifting takes every last ounce of their energy. Their face goes slack and their lower jaw drops, but their lips remain sealed so that the bottom half of the face

Crying your eyes out is GOOD for you, say doctors!

There's a lot more to tears than meets the eye. Tears are crucial to our physical and emotional health.

In numerous studies, researchers have found that crying helps lessen the effects of dermatitis, tension headaches and asthma.

On the other hand, experts say, holding back tears can create stress, which in turn can lead to heart attacks and ulcers and reduce the body's ability to ward off common colds. Most of us blink about 15 times a minute, using our eyelids like squeegees to spread new tears over the eye.

"Tears are beneficial because they contain a lot of things that keep the cornes of the eye healthy and free of bacterial agents," said specialist Dr. Stephen Bloomfield.

"An enzyme in tears digests bacteria and keeps the eye from becoming infected.

"Tears moisten the cornea, making it less susceptible to abrasions and severe drying, which can impair vision."

And tears, of course, are an integral part of crying.

For babies, particularly, crying is a way to build the breathing and speech reflexes and to communicate.

Research on infants has shown that mothers who pick up their babies when they cry during the first year have babies who are less fussy and weepy later on. In other words, the more responsive the mother, the less baby cries.

Surgeon shocker!

A brand-new study shows that an alarming 27 percent of surgeons threw up during their first operation.

And worse, 16 percent of them actually vomited on their patients!

Mechanic's ghost helps stranded motorists

One of the eeriest supernatural legends in Poland is that of the Changer of Lublin.

Many motorists who've traveled along a lonely road on the outskirts of the remote town of Lublin have reported encountering a walking man after being forced to stop with a flat tire. In each case the mystery man quickly and silently changes the traveler's tire. When the motorist offers to give the figure payment or a lift into town, he vanishes.

TRIBE'S warriors stand guard over captured chopper.

They think captured chopper's a huge bird — & are even trying to feed it!

. . . after tail rotor slices off tribal elder's head!

By LISA MOORE/Weekly World News

KINSHASA, Zaire — Jungle savages seized a helicopter and are holding it for ransom after the blades of its rear rotor sliced off a tribal elder's head!

Even more amazing, the natives think the chopper is a gigantic bird and are actually offering it food in a bid to keep it alive.

"I've been a journalist for 27 years and this is the strangest story I've ever covered," said Tim Gleason, one of two dozen newsmen monitoring the situation 450 miles north of Cacolo.

"The savages have had very little exposure to modern technology and are convinced that the helicopter is a large, trained bird," he continued.

"They are demanding a king's ransom from the charter airline that owns it.

"And they've threatened to 'kill' the chopper if they don't get the ransom before the month is out."

The bizarre drama unfolded after the chopper, flown by pilot John Barr, developed engine problems, forcing him to land near the village.

When the chopper touched down, 68-year-old Chike Apapa raised his spear and ran directly into the rotor. The whirling blades sliced off his head — killing him instantly.

killed because the blades had stopped whirling," said Gleason.

"They took the pilot prisoner but agreed to release him after a representative of the charter service arrived at the village.

"They are continuing to hold the helicopter hostage, however, until the charter service pays them — and they're demanding $100,000 ransom.

"They're even shoving bowls of food and water inside the cockpit because they really do think the helicopter is alive and expect it to eat.

"They have no concept of this just being a machine."

Spokesmen for Zaire Air Charter refuse to discuss the tribe's demands but released a prepared statement that said: "We are continuing to negotiate.

"We definitely want our helicopter back."

HOW TO STOP A NERVOUS BREAKDOWN IN 2 MINUTES FLAT!

You can dramatically reduce your stress in just two minutes simply by looking at a videotape or a painting of beautiful natural settings, according to experts!

It doesn't really matter what type of setting you choose — just select one you like, whether it's a desert scene, forest, mountains, park, seascape or garden, said psychiatrist Dr. Isidore Ziferstein.

Gazing at the beauty of nature "helps take your mind off the problems that are causing your stress," said Dr. Robert Cloninger, another noted psychiatrist.

Natural settings also are soothing to jangled nerves because they don't contain people — and people are a major cause of stress.

In addition, these tranquil scenes provide a sharp contrast to the hustle and bustle of the everyday world — and this induces a feeling of inner peace.

Watching a videotape of natural settings reduces stress. So you should look at a natural scene until you feel your stress draining.

Crazed ostrich kicks woman to death!

CAPETOWN, S. Africa — A man looked on in horror as his wife was kicked and stomped to death — by an ostrich!

Abraham Hendriks, 65, and his 63-year-old wife Ouma were walking on their farm when the crazed bird attacked. It went for Abraham first and rendered him helpless with severe injuries.

Unable to move, he had to watch as his wife was kicked and battered by the furious creature for over an hour.

MY AMERICA By ED ANGER

A woman's place is in the home — with the dog!

Our canine pets are the forgotten victims of single-parent families!

BY GUM, you never saw June Lockhart leave Lassie home alone.

I'm madder than Lassie with a stale Milkbone over all this whining about the damage single-parent families are doing to America's children.

Let's face it. If those yappy women's libbers hadn't spent the last 25 years persuading our wives and mothers to go out and get jobs, the vast majority of run-away husbands would never have abandoned their families in the first place.

Why'd they leave? Simply because men really can't stand to come home to a houseful of screaming kids and find the wife still at work, that's why.

Women belong in the home, for Pete's sake. I know it, you know it and even the damn National Organization for Women knows it.

ED ANGER'S dog Dodger.

But with all this whining and crying about the effect single-parent homes have on kids, nobody's said a word about the forgotten victims of this national disgrace — man's best friend, our beloved dogs.

I just read an appalling statistic from a Harvard veterinary research group that says nearly 27 million dogs must stay home alone during the workweek.

These poor animals, like their human rug-rat counterparts, usually wind up in serious trouble because they lack proper supervision. It's not uncommon to hear horror stories about nice dogs joining packs of street mongrels — stealing food from other animals, chasing mailmen or committing random acts of vandalism like chewing up sofas and peeing on carpets just for spite.

Dogfights are breaking out with such frequency that we hardly notice them anymore. And sex acts, which used to take place only in the privacy of the dog's backyard, are now being engaged in anywhere, anytime.

Command most 1990s dogs to SIT or STAY and they'll look at you like you've lost your marbles.

ED ANGER'S dog Blossom.

That's a far cry from the 1950s, when dogs were a joy to have around the house. Take Lassie, for instance. What American kid didn't love watching her wholesome TV show? Even thinking of Lassie engaging in casual sex or running with a pack would have been ridiculous.

But things are different today, by gum. Face it, folks. The family dog needs a woman at home just as much as any kid does. But what makes me so pig-biting mad is that so few people, in government or out, can see the writing on the wall.

What kind of pups are today's dysfunctional dogs going to raise? A bunch of canine trash, most likely — unwilling or unable to adjust anywhere but on the mean streets of America, taking a crap anywhere they feel like it, taking a bite out of anyone they please.

How many times will we have to step in their do-do before we finally bite the bullet and send women back home where they belong?

I have two of the best-behaved English bullterriers on the planet and who do I have to thank for it? My wife Thelma Jean, that's who.

She feeds them three squares a day, mops their brow when they're sick and picks fleas off 'em with tweezers.

What's more, I expect her to pet each dog a minimum of 45 minutes a day before I get home from work.

If dogs are the future of America's pets, we either get Mom back home, or we'll all have to pay for our stupidity later.

Ed Anger

Lobster pinches socialite's boob in ritzy restaurant!

By JOE BERGER / Weekly World News

PARIS — Snooty socialite Daniella LeDoureau was dining in one of Europe's ritziest restaurants when the monster lobster she was digging into suddenly raised a king-size claw — and got a death grip on her left breast!

"I was just getting ready to eat the damn thing when it reached up and tried to eat me," sniffed fat-cat Daniella, 66.

"That lobster grabbed my breast and no matter how much I ran around and screamed, it just wouldn't let go. Everybody in the place was gawking and I've never been so humiliated in my life.

"Finally a waiter came over and rescued my breast from the lobster's claw — and that was pretty embarrassing in itself."

DISTRESSED diner Daniella LeDoureau.

The miffed matron has filed suit against the hoity-toity Havre Celeste restaurant, seeking $937,000 for pain and suffering and a whopping $1.3 million in punitive damages.

"In a restaurant that charges what they charge, this kind of thing should never happen," the outraged lady told reporters.

But shook-up chef Alain Delohen says it's not his fault the cranky crustacean latched onto the society belle's breast.

"That lobster was properly prepared, I can guarantee you that," huffed dismayed Alain. "But sometimes even after they are boiled, there is just enough life left in them for them to jerk or twitch or reach out like that.

"It's a reflex kind of thing, and I can't be responsible for a lobster's reflexes."

Flabbergasted Daniella's mortifying ordeal began the moment the widow of millionaire wine merchant Michel LeDoureau and pal Paulette Boudier-Menard were served their four-pound lobsters at Havre Celeste on the evening of February 2.

"The meal had been superb up to that point and these lob-mine, that big old claw came up and grabbed my breast so hard I let out a scream that could be heard across the dining room.

"I tried to pull him off, but the harder I pulled, the tighter he hung on.

"I was jumping around and howling and making a fool of myself, but I didn't care because it really, really hurt."

Finally, wide-eyed waiter Dana Herrou rushed to the rescue and gently extricated Daniella's pinched appendage.

"I was so upset after that, I couldn't even eat the rest of my meal," said hopping-mad Daniella. "When you go to the nicest restaurant in France for dinner, you don't expect to wind up running around the place with a lobster hanging from your boob."

WOMAN KILLS HERSELF — AT HER HUBBY'S GRAVE!

NEW YORK CITY — A woman who was in a deep depression following the death of her husband decided to die with him — by killing herself at his grave.

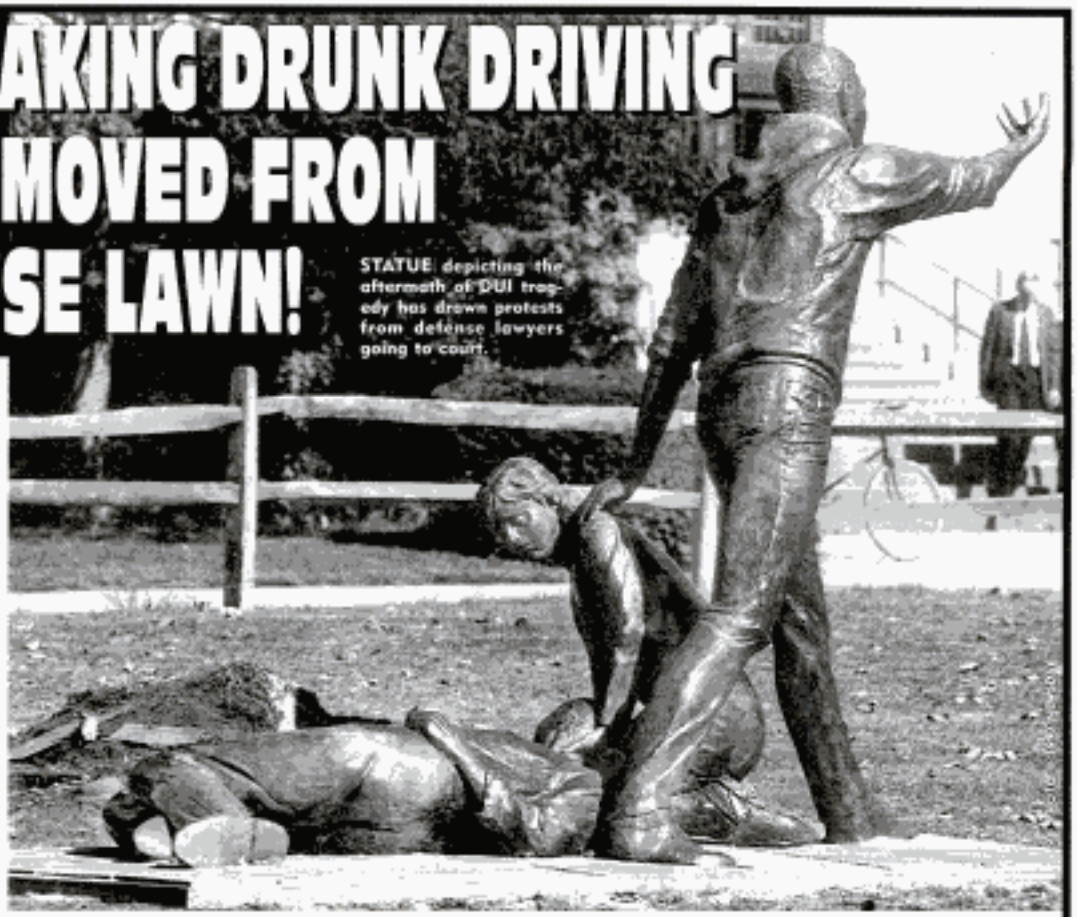
The body of Margaret Abel, 80, was found slumped over her husband's grave at Brooklyn's Lutheran All Saints Cemetery.

A bag was over her head, and an empty bottle of vodka and prescription drugs lay nearby.

Her husband Louis had died six months earlier.

"She'd given up living at the time of his death, and I guess she had contemplated it for some time," said her grief-stricken son, who wished to remain unidentified.

HEARTBREAKING DRUNK DRIVING STATUE REMOVED FROM COURTHOUSE LAWN!



STATUE depicting the aftermath of DUI tragedy has drawn protests from defense lawyers going to court.

By JERRY SHAW
Weekly World News

EAST MEADOW, N.Y. — Lawyers feared a sculpture of a drunk-driving accident would get their clients tossed in the slammer by sympathetic jurors — so they forced officials to remove it from a courthouse lawn!

The attorneys complained that the bronze statue — showing a woman cradling a man's head as another man calls for help — would influence potential jurors deciding the fate of people accused of drunk driving.

One lawyer even filed a lawsuit against Nassau County, which owns the statue, asking that the court order its removal.

Frustrated officials decided to give in.

"Rather than stir up some animosity, I thought, 'Let's just move it,'" said Roger Bogsted, coordinator for STOP DWI and executive director of the Nassau County Traffic Safety Board.

So the statue was dismantled and hauled to a storage room until it's moved to the Nassau County Medical Center here.

Artist Michael Alfano created the sculpture as a memorial for his former girlfriend who died in a drunk-driving accident in 1990.

But he said he wanted it to speak to broader issues facing youths, not just drunk driving.

"It could be the scene of a car crash or drug overdose," said Michael, 28. "Art is in the eyes of the beholder."

Lawyers started complaining about the 8-foot-tall, 6-foot-wide statue shortly after it was placed in front of the courthouse.

The removal has brought protests from many community groups.

"Maybe they should build a statue of a lawyer chasing an ambulance," said a member of Mothers Against Drunk Driving.

7 easy ways to control your future

Successful people have certain attitudes you can adopt to control your future and change your life for the better.

To find out if you're ready to take charge of your future, ask yourself these questions:

❶ Do I have a positive mental attitude toward change? Life's winners look upon change not as a threat, but as a basis for hope. Since the world is changing constantly, you'll have to adapt and embrace change if you want to achieve happiness and success.

❷ Do I have a positive mental attitude toward myself? Winners are convinced they can improve themselves in spite of their faults, limitations and shortcomings. You can be a winner, too, if you accept your imperfections and work to rise above them.

❸ Do I have a positive mental attitude toward problems? Remember, problems give you an opportunity to stretch yourself. The person who faces problems and takes action to solve them will emerge smarter and stronger.

❹ Do I have a positive mental attitude toward people? Interviews with hundreds of successful leaders in different fields revealed their secret of success: They expect the best from people and they get it.

❻ Do I have a positive mental attitude toward decision-making? Realize that if you avoid making a decision, you're deciding not to act.

❼ Do I have a positive attitude about my leadership abilities? People who control their own future don't allow others to take a leadership role when it comes to their own bodies, minds and souls. They take responsibility for their lives — and so should you.

If you do, you're already on your way to controlling your future and achieving the success and happiness you dream about.

BACHELOR BLUES!

'All the gals I date turn out to be men'

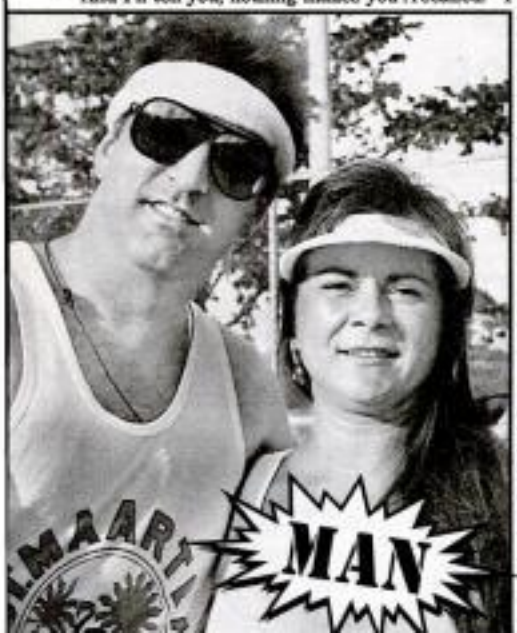
By JOE BERGER / Weekly World News

SAN DIEGO, Calif. — Love-starved bartender Dale Lecusa longs to find the girl of his dreams, but the befuddled bachelor has sworn off the singles scene for good — because the last three ladies he's dated have been guys in disguise!

"I don't know if there's something wrong with me or not, but every time I fall for a woman, 'she' turns out to be a damn transvestite," groaned disillusioned Dale, 34.

"I've gone out with three absolutely adorable ladies in the last year and never once suspected they weren't really women till BOOM! — all hell broke loose.

"And I'll tell you, nothing makes you sicker than finding out the woman you love is actually some hairy-legged bruiser who likes to dress up in ladies' clothes."



Devastated Dale's misadventures with the misses began early in 1997 when he met sultry Serena Reeselle at a bar near the posh country club where he works.

"Serena was an absolute doll — or at least I thought she was," the rattled romeo recalled. "I mean, this wasn't a hangout for weirdos or anything, so I never dreamed there was a guy under that black dress and all that makeup.

"I was so taken with her that I asked her out the next night, and before long we were dating up a storm.

"I'm a shy person when it comes to sex, so I never really pressed her to get too cozy. We would hold hands and snuggle a little and that was about all. I figured the rest would come later."

But the love-struck suitor's world came crashing down around him when he took the bogus belle to a party — and a friend informed him that his princess was really a queen.

"This lawyer friend I ran into at the party did a double take when I introduced him to Serena," dumbfounded Dale recalled. "Later he told me he'd run into the same person during a court case — and he knew for a fact that 'she' was a man.

"I confronted Serena and she broke down and confessed.

"It was the most horrifying moment of my life — especially when she told me she used to be an Army drill sergeant."

But the shell-shocked bartender didn't realize what a minefield the singles scene had become till he fell in love with two more delectable ladies — and discovered that they, too, were dingbats in drag.

"First there was Monica," he recalled. "She was tanned and gorgeous and she kicked my butt in tennis every time we played. I never could figure out why, either, until she got stopped for a traffic ticket and had to admit that she was really a guy named Morris with a wife and two kids somewhere in Ohio.

"And then came Cindy, the blonde bombshell with the sexy voice.

"I actually thought I was going to marry her — till I learned her real name was Hugh, of all things."

So disgusted Dale says his dating days are done, at least until he gets over the beefcake blues.

"From now on I'm not going out with anybody unless they consent to a strip search in advance," he said with a sigh.

DUMBFOUNDED Dale almost married cross-dressing cutie Cindy — until he found out her real name was Hugh.

The color of your swimsuit reveals your personality!

You can read your friends like an open book — just by checking out the color of their swimsuits!

And the color of your swimsuit can even give you a keen insight into your own personality, according to a report in a top psychology journal.

Here are the popular swimsuit colors and what they tell about people who pick them:

Black — This is a very dramatic person who thrives on flamboyant, high-risk situations. Even though the swimsuit is dark, the wearer has a colorful personality.

White — This person is very concerned about appearance, but tends to be rather crisp and cool. A white swimsuit is for a business-like and efficient person.

Red — Folks who wear this color suit want to be noticed by everyone. They don't beat around the bush and are willing to put themselves on the line.

Light blue — Calm and serene, people in light blue suits almost always go out of their way to avoid arguments and generally keep opinions to themselves.

Navy blue — This is for people who are neat, tidy and very organized. They are always on time and hate to be kept waiting.

Orange — This person is very happy with his life and has a positive attitude about the world and the people in it.

Yellow — Bright and cheerful, these folks have a great sense of humor and love to laugh. They're not afraid to stand up to anyone.

Purple — This color is for a sensitive person who is a great listener. Someone in a purple suit is more concerned about other folks' needs than his own.

Brown — This color is for down-to-earth people who are realistic, open and truthful. They believe in getting back to the basics.

Tan — Swimmers in tan suits keep their true emotions to themselves. They want to blend in with the crowd and enjoy the simple things in life.

Pink — Suits this color are for very happy souls who enjoy almost everything they see and do.

No Suit — If you like to go skinny-dipping, you are a happy-go-lucky person who's not afraid to take a chance. You like to meet new people and are often the life of the party.

The witchy woman I married sacrificed my dog to Satan!

ROBERT in Fordyce.

Dear Dotti: I knew my wife was into witchcraft before we got married earlier this year. But it really didn't bother me until I got home from work the other day and couldn't find Jed, the faithful dog that had been by my side through thick and thin for the past nine years. I asked Mary, that's my wife, if she had seen him. And as God is my witness, Dotti, she matter-of-factly informed me that she had had a few friends over for coffee that morning — and out of boredom, they decided to sacrifice Jed to Satan.

I was so angry it was everything I could do to keep from strangling her on the spot. But I kept my cool and simply told her that I wished she hadn't murdered the best friend and companion I ever had. Now I don't know what to do. I love Mary and all that, but I swear, this Devil crap gives me the creeps. What do you think? Am I safe? — Robert in Fordyce

Dear Robert: As long as Mary doesn't get bored again, you're probably going to be okay. With that in mind, I strongly advise you to head down to the nearest toy store — and buy the fool some games!

CONFIDENTIALS

Dear Snuffy in Cedar Falls: If you really want people to treat you with respect, lady, change your stupid name!

Dear Cute and Curvy in Monroeville: Too bad you're a man!

Dear Suspicious in Cross City: The best way to find out if your wife is cheating on you is to hysterically accuse her of it in public and see how she reacts.

Dear Jailed, Jobless and Furious in Bolivar: What did you expect the boss to do after you stole his Corvette — give you a raise?

Dear Dirt Poor in Marshall: You should have thought about that before you married a man who told you "money is the root of all evil" — and meant it!

Dear Loverboy in Taylorville: I don't care how many girlfriends you have on the string. How an 86-year-old man can refer to himself as a "loverboy" is beyond me!

Dear Wondering in Waxhaw: It's really none of your business but if you must know, yes — I DO wear thong panties!

Creepy English professor wants my body BIG-TIME!

PATRICIA in Clinton.

Dear Dotti: I started my junior year in college this fall and because I always study hard and do my best, I expect to make straight A's in all my classes. The only glitch is my English teacher, who has already made it clear to me in numerous ways that I won't do very well in his class unless I go to bed with him. I'm serious, Dotti. The guy must be 40 years old and he ogles me like crazy all during class. One day he asked me to stay after "You know, it's awfully hard to make good grades when you aren't 'nice' to your teacher." I'm worried that he will fail me, Dotti. What should I do? — Patricia in Clinton

Dear Patricia: The solution to your problem is as plain as the nose on my face. Tell the creep you've got AIDS!

Crazy hubby spends $250 a week — on healing herbs!

Dear Dotti: My husband is an idiot and he's trying his damndest to put us in the poorhouse. For starters, he spends $200 to $250 a week on all these moronic healing herbs he reads about and spends all his time raving about how good he feels. I swear, Dotti, he takes at least 200 different herbs a day. It takes guzzles each and every morning. I wouldn't mind it so much if he wasn't constantly trying to persuade me to take them, too. I'm sick of it, Dotti. How can I make him shut up? — Irene in Blakely

Dear Irene: Don't be a stooge. If you really want your husband to stop taking all those herbs, spike a few of those liquids he guzzles with high-powered laxatives and let Mother Nature do the "dirty work" for you!

Why does Daddy play doctor with Mommy's best friend?

TAMMY in Clarion.

Dear Dotti: Mommy's best friend is Becky. She comes over to our house just about every day when Mommy isn't home and stays to play doctor with my Daddy. He told me that I shouldn't say anything to Mommy about it so I haven't. But I think that they're doing something very bad. Should I tell Mommy? I am 10 years old. — Tammy in Clarion

Dear Tammy: Yes, you should tell Mommy so you'll know, that woman isn't your mother's "best friend." Like your dad, she's slime!

Should I tell the truth about Mom's missing condoms?

Dear Dotti: A few weeks ago my parents were out of town for the weekend and naturally, being 17 years old, I threw a big party. Needless to say, both boys and girls were invited. And as the night wore on, a few of us got intimate. The problem is, when Mom got home, she noticed an entire box of 24 condoms had disappeared from her nightstand. She accused my older brother of taking them, but I know better. Should I tell Mom the truth or leave well enough alone, Dotti? — Frank in Morehead City

Dear Frank: As long as your brother is taking the heat I see no reason to complicate matters by fessing up. Consider it revenge for something bad he's done to YOU!

Hubby cheating on you?

Give THIS guy a call and your worries are over!

I'LL MAKE HIM AN OFFER HE CAN'T REFUSE!

Donna Devoresco's hubby bought her a brand-new Mercedes after a "chat" with cheater beater Rudy Birdsong.

"He took the swagger out of my man in a hurry," says Lila Raske.

Angry wives pay between $500 and $2,500 for ex-Mafia enforcer to have a chat with their wayward mates!

LOS ANGELES — Bruising Rudy Birdong is a former mob enforcer who's persuaded hundreds of adulterous hubbies to walk the straight and narrow — usually with nothing but a steely stare and a few well-chosen words!

The burly bachelor charges gals $500 to $2,500 a pop to bring their wayward mates back into line — and he says business has been booming in the wake of recent allegations of whoopie in the White House.

"Now women see that even our First Lady can be victimized by a husband with a well-oiled zipper, they're less embarrassed to reach out for help," rock-'em, sock-'em Rudy told a reporter.

"When these ladies catch their husbands messing around with another woman, they feel like they've been 'Hillaried' and a lot of them are mad as hell. So instead of sitting around moping or going to some pantywaist marriage counselor, they go looking for a guy like me — somebody who'll drive home his point with a Louisville slugger if he has to."

The former Cosa Nostra knee-breaker says he's shown more than 100 two-timing guys the error of their ways since he became every Don Juan hubby's worst nightmare in 1993.

"I get most of my customers by word of mouth — ladies I've worked for passing my phone number on to their friends," said tough-and-ready Rudy, 42.

"They call me up and tell me what their husband's been up to and where I can find the sleazeball.

"When I catch up with the guy, I explain to him that I know what he's been doing and his wife knows what he's been doing, and that I'm her new best friend and I'm going to be watching out for her interests.

"Maybe I just happen to be carrying a baseball bat and maybe not. But I look him right in the eye and tell him in no uncertain terms that if he doesn't clean up his act, I'll be back and then maybe he won't be walking so good — or maybe his sex life will be over for good, if you get my meaning.

"That usually gets their attention and I seldom have to have a second talk with anybody."

And the hoodlum-turned-housewife's-helper has a long list of ladies willing to vouch for the success of his behavior modification techniques.

"I walked into my husband's office and caught him doing things with one of his secretaries that he never did with me," recalled shocked Donna Devoresco, 39.

"I was so furious, I phoned Rudy and told him to do whatever it took to make the creep see the light.

"Rudy caught up with him two days later in a parking garage near where he works. I don't know what he said to him exactly, but the next day my husband bought me a brand new Mercedes — and he's been a perfect little angel ever since."

And delighted Lila Raske, 32, says Rudy saved her 13-year marriage just as it was ready to shatter into a thousand pieces.

"He took the swagger out of my man in a hurry," the elated lady recalled.

Rain Forest Wonder Herb Now Available in the United States Without a Prescription!

THIS JUNGLE PILL WILL CHANGE YOUR LIFE!

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah — What is considered by many to be one of the most powerful herbs on the planet is now available in the United States without a prescription and costs just pennies a day. The rain forest herb Una de Gato (Cat's Claw) is not only relied on by millions of true and grateful believers, it is guaranteed to change your life in a matter of hours, days or in truly stubborn situations, weeks, excited experts report.

Incredibly, there's more. According to Dr. Donna Schwontkowski, author of the important book, Herbs of the Amazon, Traditional and Common Uses, Una de Gato, which means "Cat's Claw" in Spanish, is a treasured and revered component of a folk tradition that has been tested and proven over a history of continuous use spanning hundreds of years.

"Rain forest herbs like Una de Gato clearly are among the purest and most powerful found in nature," declared Dr. Schwontkowski. "They also are among the most thoroughly tested, having been used by the indigenous peoples of the Amazon for hundreds of years."

Dr. Schwontkowski isn't the only expert singing the praises of Una de Gato (Cat's Claw), which is derived from the bark of a thorny vine that grows abundantly in the Amazon rain forest.

Susan Ambrosino

The testimonials from ordinary people who now count themselves among a growing legion of "Cat's Claw believers" are full of praises so heartfelt and sincere that they often culminate in tearful expressions of pure joy.

E.F., of Pensacola, FL., flatly states: "Before I found Cat's Claw, I was dead — DEAD! This herb gave me more than a miracle — it gave me back my life."

D.S., of Elba, AL., is equally enthusiastic. He says: "The pain in my hip joints crippled me for years. Just two weeks after I started Cat's Claw, the pain is gone. I jump up off the sofa like a 16 year old!"

C.G., of Statesboro, Ga., goes even further than that. She says: "I had problems for years and Cat's Claw stopped them dead in their tracks. I lay in bed last night and kept saying 'Thank you Lord for the Cat's Claw.' I am going on 83, jumping rope and doing exercise. Four years ago, I was almost to the point I needed a walking cane or a walker."

Mind-bogglingly, there's more. L.R., of Albuquerque, N.M., says: "Thanks to Susan Ambrosino and the Lord I found this wonderful rain forest herb. It has turned me back to life!"

D.C. of Lake Worth, FL, knows the power of Cat's Claw well. He says: "I take Cat's Claw every day like a vitamin tablet and my doctor called the results of my recent physical, which included a grueling, 26-function blood test, 'spectacular.'

"I have energy to spare and feel stronger, sharper and more alert than I did as a kid of 20. It might sound like a joke, but I'm as serious as a preacher when I say that with Cat's Claw in my medicine chest, I am 100 percent confident that I will never be sick again. Cat's Claw is God's herb. There's not a doctor alive, not a medical technology available, that could make anything like this herb. Only God can make a miracle — and that's exactly what Cat's Claw is."

Breakthrough research in Europe, where doctors routinely recommend herbs and herbal therapies to patients, is equally dramatic. After long and intensive study, an esteemed Austrian researcher identified several important alkaloids — active ingredients — found in the Cat's Claw herb. An extract is now being used as adjunctive therapy in the treatment of severe immune disorders.

It's no secret that a strong immune system enables the body to ward off or banish diseases and conditions of every description, even the most painful, debilitating and terrifying known to man.

Pure, powerful, premium Una de Gato (Cat's Claw) is, in fact, available without a prescription in the United States. You are strongly advised, however, to purchase yours from a reliable, trusted source. Infinity Herbs has sold and shipped premium, money-back-guaranteed Una de Gato (Cat's Claw) to well over 10,000 satisfied customers the world over since 1995. And at just $13 per bottle of 100, 500mg capsules, Infinity's Una de Gato (Cat's Claw) is a tremendous bargain. Please don't settle for cheap impostors or waste your hard-earned money on over-priced products costing $25 to $30 or more. Infinity's Una de Gato (Cat's Claw) is not only priced right, it is pure, powerful and certified. Not only that, Infinity's Una de Gato (Cat's Claw) is guaranteed to change your life — or your money back.

How to collect debts from deadbeat friends — without making them mad!

When a friend or relative doesn't return money he owes you, hard feelings can result — but these tips can help you collect the cash without putting your relationship on the rocks.

By GRAHAM WILLS
Weekly World News

Just try one of the following techniques from psychologist Dr. Matti Gershenfeld.

- Be gentle, but firm. "Maybe you've forgotten, but I'd appreciate repayment of the money I lent you" is one way of jogging the borrower's memory.
- Plead "need." Tell your friend you wouldn't be pressing him or her for the money if you didn't need it. Confess to being in a financial bind — due to an unexpected bill, heavy medical expense or an upcoming expenditure. When you cite a need, your request for repayment becomes more persuasive.
- Ask for payment on his terms. "When do you think you'll be able to pay me back?" is less offensive than demanding money "now."
- Suggest a "pay-as-you-go" plan. Say something like, "If it's a bad time for you, it's fine with me if you give me something on account every week," suggested Dr. Gershenfeld. When you give your permission to pay you piecemeal, you're more apt to get your money back and keep things friendly.

But whatever way you decide to approach the problem, be sure to keep these points in mind:

- Reassure your friend that you're still friends. The person who owes you money probably feels uncomfortable and needs reassurance that you are still friends.
- Never try to collect the debt in front of other people.
- Don't kid someone about the money they owe you.
- Never tell acquaintances about your "deadbeat" friend.

If the amount is small, say $5 or $10, don't worry about it. Friendship can be more important than the money.

Tots pick butt-kicking TV tough guys over boring Barney, says study!

TORONTO, Canada — Give a kid a choice between watching a cutesy children's show or a super-violent adult show and the little tyke will pick the butt-kicking, punch-and-stomp program every time!

That's the finding of experts at Ryerson Polytechnic University who studied 1,506 children and their viewing preferences.

"If there was no violence, television would be boring and dumb," said one 13-year-old girl. And researchers say her attitude is typical.

But it's not only teens and preteens who love watching physical conflict. Even tots, left to their own devices, will pick ballistics over Barney.

WHAT is your secret message from the Orient this week? It's easy and fun to decipher. Here's the key to decoding your message:

If the number of letters in your first name is 5 or less, subtract that number from 7. If there are more than 5 letters in your first name, subtract the total from 13.

Now take the result and find your key letter in the word ORIENT above. Starting at the upper left corner of the box below, check each one of your key letters as it appears from left to right. The letters below each of your key letters spell out a coded message for you.

Weekly World News has purchased exclusive rights to the world's most powerful computer — and we use it to pick the six luckiest lottery numbers every week!

The Swiss-built computer, called Bright Green, has the ability to calculate which lottery numbers are most likely to come up each week, based on previous performance and established tendencies. The numbers are good for the week the NEWS is on the newsstand.

The computer scans all numbers selected in lotteries across America over the past year to provide a statistical base for predicting future results. More value is given to the most recently selected numbers.

Using all available data, the computer picks the

AMERICA'S SEXIEST PSYCHIC

Serena Sabak

Let Dallas-based Serena help you! Write to her c/o Weekly World News, 600 E. Coast Ave., Lantana, Fla. 33464-0002. We'll forward your letters to her. Don't send money. Serena's advice is free.

Dear Serena: Many years ago I lost touch with a dear friend. I want to find her but I lost her address and phone number and can't get in touch no matter how hard I try.

A private investigator said he could find her but his fee is too high for me to pay. Please help, Serena. — Waiting in South Dakota

Dear Waiting: I didn't even have to use my psychic powers to help you because I received a letter from your friend the same day I got this one from you! She wants to get in touch with you also. I've forwarded your mailing address to her and hers to you. I foresee a very happy reunion in April.

Dear Serena: Please help me before I go insane! A few minutes ago my telephone rang and when I answered it, my dead husband's voice said: "Stop worrying about me, darling, I'm very happy here in Heaven. Please believe me and get on with your life. There is much you have left to accomplish." I know you won't lie to me, Serena. Was it my husband, my imagination or someone playing a joke? — Hoping in Richfield

Dear Hoping: That was definitely your husband on the phone and I urge you to take his advice. By the way, what happened to you isn't as strange as you think. Researchers estimate that as many as 500 people each year receive phone calls from the dearly departed.

Dear Serena: I'm very upset about two large lumps on my chin. Will you please see what your crystal ball tells you about the lumps? Are they going to get bigger? — Worried in Illinois

Dear Worried: The growths on your chin are benign but must be removed right away. See your doctor immediately. You'll be fine if you act now!

Dear Serena: Is the woman in the apartment across from me looking into my bedroom at night? Her window lines up with my bedroom window and sometimes I wake up with the creepy feeling that she's watching me. And my girlfriend says she won't ever spend the night with me because she's afraid this woman's looking in on us. Is she? — Bothered in McComb

Dear Bothered: She's not looking in on you — but she's getting ready to complain to the landlord that you are looking in on her. Talk the situation over with her before you end up in big trouble.

Dear Serena: My sister won big bucks on the Super Bowl. Not only did she bet on Denver to win but she got the score exactly right and even guessed who would score last. And she doesn't even like football! Please tell me how she did this — I think she might be a psychic like you are. Is she? — Wondering in Prentiss

Dear Wondering: Actually she is — but she doesn't know how to use her remarkable powers to their full extent. I've sent one of my top assistants to meet with her to discuss her psychic gifts. She has a bright future ahead of her.

Here's a wacky theory that's out of this world . . .

Did Castro replace Pope with a Communist double?

BEFORE the Papal visit to Cuba: John Paul II sports a mole on his right cheek.

AFTER Papal visit: Where's the mole? This man is clearly NOT John Paul II.

Vatican insiders say Pope John Paul II is 'not the same man' who went to Cuba!

VATICAN CITY — Was the Pope replaced with a Communist double while on his historic trip to Cuba?

Incredibly, conspiracy buffs are saying that wily dictator Fidel Castro kidnapped the Pontiff and substituted a look-alike ordered to preach the "virtues" of Communism all around the world!

And, while U.S. Embassy officials here call the conspiracy theory "ridiculous," some top clergymen close to the leader of the Catholic Church say that the man who returned to the Vatican is NOT the same John Paul II who visited Cuba in late January!

They point to photographs taken before and after the trip, noting that a mole, once clearly visible on the Pope's right cheek, is now conspicuously absent. They insist that the man who claims to be the Pope lacks the warmth, humor and boundless energy of the real John Paul — what's more, he is unable to speak the Pope's native Polish without a distinct Spanish accent.

"Several cardinals I have interviewed are very concerned. They say a dramatic change has come over His Holiness since the Cuba visit," said investigative reporter Lorenzo DiTrafficanti, who covers the Vatican for the Italian magazine Bravo.

The Pope flew to the politically isolated island nation on January 21 and met with Castro the following day. On Sunday, January 25, he the switch during his closed-door meeting with the Pope at the presidential palace, explained DiTrafficanti. "The cardinals suspect that Castro hopes to use this fake Pope to help end the American blockade that is suffocating Cuba's economy. They also fear that as the last major Marxist leader in the world, he is hoping to use the impostor to revive world Communism.

"The Pope is respected worldwide — he certainly could be a powerful mouthpiece for Fidel."

Interestingly enough, in the sermon he delivered before leaving Cuba, the "Pope" criticized the 34-year-old U.S. embargo, saying from the pulpit that economic embargoes "are always deplorable because they hurt the most needy."

And while the real Pope worked vigorously to bring down Communism in Poland and the Soviet Union, his supposed replacement has espoused ideas that have a definite socialistic ments of the world "must use their powers to improve the well-being of the poor, even if it means the rich must part with some of their wealth and enjoy a less opulent existence."

One high-level Vatican official told DiTrafficanti, "I am certain that is not John Paul II."

On the record, however, Catholic Church officials doggedly insist that the mystery man in the Vatican is indeed the Pope. And a spokesman

Scientists baffled by village EVERYONE HAS THE SAME

All 237 residents look exactly alike

MADRAS, India — Scientists are completely baffled by the people of Khala Goona, a remote village where all 237 citizens have the same face!

The tiny town, located about 30 miles south of Bangalore, has written a brand-new page in the book of human genetics.

"The face of every man, woman and child here is exactly like everyone else's, right down to the tiniest detail," says Dr. Ernst Bucholz, noted German biologist and genetics expert.

By NARESH SINGH

Weekly World News

Dr. Bucholz heads a team of experts who have been studying the so-called "Village of Clones" for more than a year.

"From the creases just under the cheeks, to the tapering nose, to the slight bulges above the eyebrows, it's impossible to discern one person's features from another's," he said.

Dr. Bucholz says he and his research team have no idea what has caused the amazing phenomenon.

"Our chemists have run detailed tests of the area and found extremely high levels of platinum and bismuth in the soil and water. And although some scientists believe large concentrations of these minerals can affect the cells of pregnant women and alter the development of the fetus, I'd be very hesitant to say these circumstances have been caused by minerals."

The people of Khala Goona have unique methods of recognizing and relating to one another.

"We learn to know each other by the way we walk, move and gesture," says 81-year-old Indira Kapoor, who has lived in Khala Goona all her life.

"I know the walk and movements of everyone in town so well that I can recognize them instantly, even from great distances away — long before I get close enough to see their faces.

"Also, each of us has a unique way of dressing, wearing the same styles and colors every day so we can be identified.

"And of course we pay close attention to each other's voices.

"We work hard to develop vocal inflections that set us apart from one another."

The people of the village are devoutly spiritual.

Every villager attends the Ashram — the Hindu equivalent of the Christian church — regularly.

"We believe it is our Karma that we all have the same face," says Mrs. Kapoor.

"God is teaching us that we must learn to treat all his people the same — with dignity and respect — because each person we meet is exactly like us: A human being who deserves kindness and love."

Experts tell why American women are so bitchy

Borderline anemia stalks millions of American women, robbing them of their energy, making them feel irritable and reducing their ability to concentrate, say experts.

"It's a significant problem," says epidemiologist Dr. Ray Yip.

"Other than obesity, this is probably the single most common nutritional disorder in the country among women."

Of the 70 million American females between 12 and 50, about 5 percent, or 3.5 million, suffer from full-blown iron-deficiency anemia.

Anemia results when hemoglobin — the component that gives red blood cells their color and carries oxygen to the cells' limited ability to deliver oxygen triggers various symptoms including unexplained or persistent fatigue, unusual or extreme irritability, reduced concentration and work performance and increased sensitivity to cold.

The most common cause of borderline anemia is an iron-poor diet, according to dietitian Maudene Nelson.

She offers these tips to help you reduce your risk of borderline anemia:

● Cook with cast-iron pots and ing lean beef, turkey, lamb, veal, liver, beans, peas, lentils, dark green vegetables, prunes, apricots and raisins. To boost your body's store of iron, combine meats with iron-rich vegetables in the same meal.

● Avoid coffee and tea with meals. They hinder the ability to absorb iron in your food. Instead, drink those beverages between meals.

● Add vitamin C to your meals — it helps the body absorb iron.

For example, you could have a

Body of 2,600-year-old man found!

CHEHRABAD, Iran — Anthropologists digging in an ancient salt quarry here have uncovered the perfectly preserved corpse of a man who was buried alive — more than 600 years before the birth of Christ!

The 2,600-year-old man, with a gold earring in his left ear, considered one of the greatest anthropological finds of the century.

"The man's body is in the same condition it was on the day he died. His eyebrows, mustache and beard have remained intact and they are in remarkable condition," government was buried under many layers of salt."

Sobuti, a member of Iran's Cultural Heritage Organization, said it's believed the man was buried alive when an earthquake caused the quarry to collapse.

"The body is absolutely pris- discovery. "The skin, of course, is very dry, but all of the features are incredibly well preserved.

"We have found pieces of pottery and other relics that indicate there may be more bodies buried there.

"We feel certain that more ies would be a great boon to science, primarily because it would enable other scientists to study them, just as we are doing with the one we now have.

"This man died about 2,600 years ago.

How to get along with co-workers — even if you hate their guts!

You can get along better with hated co-workers if you learn to recognize the six basic personality types, says a noted psychologist!

By LOU MARTIN
Weekly World News

Based on years of clinical observation and research, Dr. Taibi Kahler — an expert in employee communications — divides people into the following categories and reveals how you can get along with each:

● REACTORS are emotional and fast to react to the feelings of other people. They function best in a group and think of co-workers as their family away from home.

If you work with a reactor, you should be as friendly and warm as possible and let him know he is important to you as a person.

The reactor responds well when you tell him things like, "I'm glad you're here."

Many nurses and teachers are reactors.

● WORKAHOLICS are logical, orderly and precise.

The wrong way to communicate with a workaholic is to approach him on a personal level. He'll want to hear just the facts, so skip the small talk and jokes and get directly to the point.

● REBELS are energetic, expressive and spontaneous, and they dislike rigid schedules.

They need plenty of stimulation and contact with people. You should let the rebel brainstorm and bounce new ideas off you. He has a need to be creative and to have a good time. Don't try to keep him to a tight timetable. Artists, writers and musicians are often rebels.

● DREAMERS thrive on imagination, reflection and solitude. They seldom initiate conversations and start making mistakes when there is too much activity around them.

If you want to work successfully with a dreamer, you should not play loud music or be too chatty. Accountants and people who work with computers are usually dreamers.

● PERSISTERS are observant, conscientious and dedicated. They have strong beliefs about how a job should be done. Many of them are in the field of law and law enforcement.

If you disagree with them, they tend to assume you're wrong. So rather than criticizing their mistakes, it's best to try to help them discover where they've erred by engaging them in a discussion.

● PROMOTERS are the most action-oriented people. Resourceful, adaptable and charming, the promoter will look for special favors and ways around the rules. To get along best with the promoter, you should avoid discussing theory and details, since he likes action.

Dr. Kahler concludes that the least desirable combination is putting a reactor to work with a dreamer.

Others that would be difficult together are rebels and workaholics, rebels and persisters and promoters and persisters.

Titanic survivor saved her pet beagle — by disguising him as a baby!

By CLETE FULLERTON / Weekly World News

LONDON — A Titanic survivor sneaked her pet beagle onto a lifeboat — by disguising him as a baby!

That's the word from historians who discovered a diary written by Lillian Alfredson, daughter of a wealthy socialite.

She rescued her pooch, Abner, from the kennel compartment of the doomed ship where many panicked animals were running loose.

The woman bundled the dog up in a blanket and even covered his head in a bonnet — fooling passengers and crewmen as she and her "baby" were ushered into a lifeboat.

"I held my shivering Abner in my arms, hoping no one would notice his panting and get angry with me because our boat was so crowded," Lillian wrote.

"He was just a dog, but he was the whole world to me. I realize many women in the boat had lost husbands and sons, and I feared their ire if they ever found out I was saving Abner."

Crewmen on the Titanic were under strict orders to allow only women and children into the lifeboats after the vessel hit an iceberg and sank on April 15, 1912.

Animals taken aboard the luxury liner had been placed in a storage area for pets.

Many frightened dogs were seen running throughout the ship after escaping the unit during the chaos.

"I raced to the compartment hoping to find Abner in the madness," wrote Lillian, who was traveling to New York to visit relatives.

"Tears filled my eyes when I saw him sitting obediently in an opened cage. Someone opened the cages to let the animals out."

Lillian, 25 at the time, used linen from her room to make a bonnet for the dog.

She wrapped him in a blanket and tried to keep his snout covered.

"They wouldn't let me take my dog, but they had to accept my baby," she wrote.

Carpathia arrived to pick up the Titanic survivors.

"Being taken onto the rescue ship, no one noticed Abner, except for one crewman on the Carpathia who gave him a strange look, perhaps thinking he had just seen an awful-looking baby.

"But by this time, there was more concern for those unfortunate souls we had left behind. I often wondered if I had been thoughtless in thinking only of my baby Abner during that tragic time.

"But he was a real child to me and brought me much joy in my life. I do not believe anyone would criticize me for that."

Lillian died in 1954. Her diary remained in her family's London home until it was recently found.

SOCIALITE Lillian Alfredson recorded the events of the fateful night in her diary.

"WOMEN & CHILDREN FIRST" was the cry aboard the sinking liner.

SCIENTISTS SAY: Worry occurs on right side of brain!

BALTIMORE, Md. — University scientists have discovered that worrying takes place on the right side of the brain!

In the study conducted at Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine, volunteers were recorded as they described their troubles, such as recent family crises and financial woes. Then they listened to the worry-inducing tapes as researchers conducted brain scans.

Weekly World News New Product Report

An astonishing new food supplement eases the agony of arthritis in up to 65 percent of patients who try it, say top arthritis specialists.

By LESTER KLINE
Weekly World News

The product, called SeaCare™, is derived from a starfish-like marine animal, the sea cucumber, and is now available without a prescription.

The use of sea cucumber has a long history, dating back some 5,000 years. The Chinese have eaten sea cucumber for its therapeutic value. Today, sea cucumber is eaten raw and served in many Chinese restaurants as a delicacy.

There are over 400 species of sea cucumber. However, the only one that has been researched and shown to be effective in treating the pain and inflammation that often accompany two of the most devastating forms of arthritis, osteoarthritis and rheumatoid arthritis, is harvested from the Great Barrier Reef of Australia.

Research both here in the United States and in Australia has shown sea cucumber capsules to not only be effective, but also safe and nontoxic. So much so that the product sold here in the United States under the name SeaCare™ is approved by the Therapeutic Goods Administration (TGA), the Australian equivalent of our Food and Drug Administration (FDA), for the treatment of muscular spasm and joint pain.

Dr. Howard Benedikt, a New York City chiropractor and nutritionist, became interested in the benefits of sea cucumber over five years ago and routinely uses the product in his clinical practice.

"Many people who come to me are seeking relief from joint pain and inflammation," says Dr. Benedikt. "They have taken medications for long periods of time, often without success. SeaCare™ is not only effective in reducing their pain, but at the same time, it helps restore normal movement of stiff joints."

Dr. Benedikt reports using SeaCare™ with over 500 patients for a wide variety of problems ranging from joint pain and stiffness to tendonitis, bursitis and muscle spasms.

"There is no question that the use of sea cucumber is an effective tool in relieving both acute and chronic pain," the expert said. "We are presently conducting clinical trials to prove its effectiveness."

Sam Grant, a native of Queensland, Australia, is the president of Marine Research, USA. This company holds exclusive rights and registration to harvest and distribute sea cucumber from the Great Barrier Reef of Australia. He began to market the product some 20 years ago when a relative found that eating sea cucumber relieved the symptoms of his arthritis.

Grant makes it clear that the sea cucumber found in SeaCare™ is not only safe for human consumption, it is the only form that has been clinically studied. Grant has spent many years and invested his own money developing the special process that makes SeaCare™ unique.

"We have taken the time and energy to ensure that our product is safe and meets the needs of the consumer," he says.

Grant pledges that his company will continue to study the benefits of sea cucumber as well as producing other natural products for human consumption.

"More and more people are becoming interested in natural remedies," Grant says, "and many of these remedies may be found in the oceans of the world."

Dr. Mori Schwartzberg, director of rheumatology at Jersey Shores Medical Center in Neptune, N.J., says SeaCare™ "is definitely worth a try.

"It has few if any side effects. It's nontoxic. It's available without a prescription. And tests show that it can have a beneficial effect in relieving the symptoms of rheumatoid arthritis and osteoarthritis.

"I would like to see more rigorous studies to isolate the active ingredient. Meanwhile, it's nice to have something so promising and safe for arthritis patients to try. I recommend it to my own patients."

In an eye-opening study, Dr. Schwartzberg found that seven of 13, or 54 percent, of patients with osteoarthritis reported a reduction of pain and greater freedom of movement after using SeaCare™.

Seven of 11 patients with rheumatoid arthritis — or 65 percent — reported reduced pain and greater freedom of movement.

Those dramatic results were virtually mirrored in a study conducted by arthritis specialist Dr. Michael McPhillips, a member of Great Britain's prestigious Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons.

The expert is now in private practice in Brisbane, Australia — where SeaCare™ has been available for years.

Dr. McPhillips found that 10 of 22 patients with rheumatic disease reported better mobility and reduced pain after they started taking SeaCare™ along with the prescription medications they were already using.

"Many of the patients were satisfied that there was significant improvement in their arthritis symptoms," Dr. McPhillips said. "And while I would not suggest that it replace conventional medications, it may be used in addition to these with good effect and seemingly with a low risk of adverse reactions.

"I conducted the study to prove that the product was bogus but I simply couldn't do it," he continued. "It does seem to have a beneficial effect in many patients and in my opinion it is something every arthritis sufferer might do well to try."

Arthritis victim Eleanor Ruzanic suffered crippling arthritis in her fingers and knees until she saw an advertisement for the product and tried it.

"After a severe reaction, I was taken off prescription medications so I had nothing for my arthritis," said the Gallala, Neb., woman. "The pain in my knees and fingers was so bad that I could barely walk or hold anything in my hands. After taking SeaCare™, the pain almost vanished.

"I would recommend it to anyone who suffers from arthritis pain."

Jeanne Nesgood of West Palm Beach, Fla., had such a severe case of arthritis that she couldn't lift groceries or turn over in bed.

"SeaCare™ has changed my life," she said. "After taking it for eight months, I'm actually bowling with a 10-pound ball."

Daphne Harper of Brooklyn, N.Y., tried cortisone and five other prescription medications for her arthritis and even had surgery on one of her crippled knees. But she remained in agony until she started using SeaCare™.

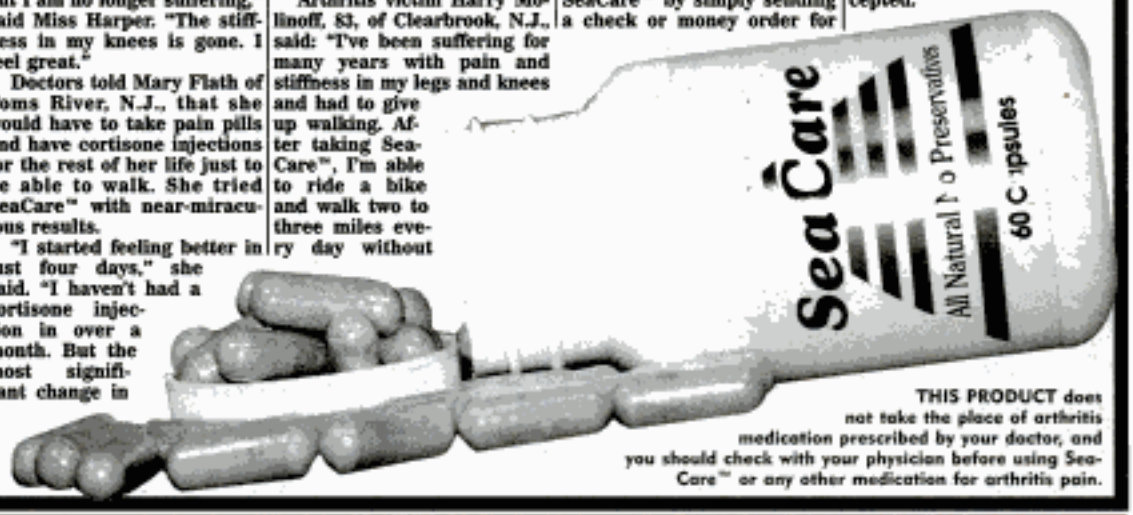
"It seems hard to believe, but I am no longer suffering," said Miss Harper. "The stiffness in my knees is gone. I feel great."

Doctors told Mary Flath of Toms River, N.J., that she would have to take pain pills and have cortisone injections for the rest of her life just to be able to walk. She tried SeaCare™ with near-miraculous results.

"I started feeling better in just four days," she said. "I haven't had a cortisone injection in over a month. But the most significant change in my life is the total omission of pain medication and reduction of arthritis medication from 200 milligrams to 25 milligrams. I plan to make SeaCare™ a daily part of my life."

Arthritis victim Harry Molinoff, 83, of Clearbrook, N.J., said: "I've been suffering for many years with pain and stiffness in my legs and knees and had to give up walking. After taking SeaCare™, I'm able to ride a bike and walk two to three miles every day without pain. I can't live without it."

Before trying any new treatment or remedy, you should always consult a doctor. With that in mind, you can order a 30-day supply of SeaCare™ by simply sending a check or money order for $19.95, plus $3.95 to cover shipping and handling, to: E.S. Entp., County Road 687, Hartford, Mich. 49057 or call 1-616-621-6291. Visa and MasterCard are accepted.



THIS PRODUCT does not take the place of arthritis medication prescribed by your doctor, and you should check with your physician before using SeaCare™ or any other medication for arthritis pain.

Health tips for preparing seafood!

With all the talk about tainted meat and fish lately, it's nice to know there are things you can do to make sure that at least your seafood is safe to eat.

Here are some tips that will help you protect your health:

- Buy your seafood from a clean, reputable place. Don't buy seafood from a market where employees are not wearing gloves.
- Make sure that seafood is properly chilled. If the seafood you're thinking of buying is displayed on ice, make sure the ice is fresh and not melting.
- Whole fish should have clear, bright eyes and their scales should be shiny.
- Refrigerate seafood immediately. Thaw frozen seafood at room temperature. Keep it in the refrigerator so it thaws evenly.
- People with weak immune systems or liver problems shouldn't eat raw oysters — or any uncooked seafood.

ARIES
Mar. 21 – Apr. 19

On Tuesday, something you overhear could trigger a money-making idea about how to convert a hobby or enjoyable pastime into big bucks.

On Thursday you could be called upon to express yourself in a high-pressure situation. But don't worry, the stars will be shining on your verbal skills. You'll be smooth as silk.

The weekend will find you at your social peak. Enjoy the popularity.

TAURUS
Apr. 20 – May 20

Someone you've never been able to stand shows you amazing kindness on Monday. The person's unselfish act could make you see how you've misjudged him or her.

On Wednesday, a letter comes in the mail that you've been waiting for for weeks. But it may not bring the news you've been hoping for.

Your lucky colors are yellow and violet.

GEMINI
May 21 – June 20

This week you'll make a wonderful impression on someone special — and you won't even have to try.

A photograph plays a big part in your life on Wednesday. The picture was taken of someone who was once important to you. This person re-emerges, causing unexpected drama in the work or romance area of your life.

Lucky letters are G, Y and H.

CANCER
June 21 – July 22

Important plans may have to be put on hold on Tuesday. But don't worry about it. Just take care of whatever comes up and resume work when you can. Things will turn out much better than they would have if you hadn't been interrupted.

On Friday, you could run into an old friend in a pharmacy or supermarket. He'll have some surprising news about a mutual acquaintance.

LEO
July 23 – Aug. 22

It's time to be kind to yourself. This is a perfect week to spend some time relaxing. Buy yourself a little gift. You've been working too hard lately.

On Thursday, a compliment from someone special lifts your spirits and could even inspire a wonderfully productive idea.

On Friday, an article of clothing could spark a disagreement between you and a pal. Keep your temper!

VIRGO
Aug. 23 – Sept. 22

An unexpected windfall could drop into your life on Tuesday — but it could cause problems unless you use it wisely. Be sure to consider the needs and opinions of others.

On Thursday, a long-distance friendship or relationship could get warmer and closer.

A phone call that comes in the latter part of the week may bring good news about the health of a loved one.

LIBRA
Sept. 23 – Oct. 22

This week, an elderly person may reach out to you for help — possibly for money or for some of your time. You'll find that whatever you give to this person comes back to you tenfold.

An invitation to a birthday party could come to you on Wednesday. Whatever you do, accept. Something wonderful could happen to you there.

Lucky places: Bookstores and coffee shops.

SCORPIO
Oct. 23 – Nov. 21

This week your levels of charm and charisma will be at an all-time high. Put yourself in situations that will bring you close to powerful people — and use your wiles to make your dreams come true.

Tuesday is a good day to make money-saving plans for the future. Your knack for high finance will be in high gear.

Lucky colors are blue and white.

SAGITTARIUS
Nov. 22 – Dec. 21

On Monday, someone you like could give you some well-meaning but ill-founded advice, placing you in an awkward position. But by Wednesday everything will work out perfectly for all concerned.

Thursday is a good day for cleaning house.

On Friday, re-evaluate your financial situation. You may be better off than you thought.

CAPRICORN
Dec. 22 – Jan. 19

Don't try so hard this week. Lots of good things will come to pass if you relax and just let them flow to you.

A woman you met last month could come back into your life on Tuesday. Don't let her chaotic state of mind affect your serenity level. If you keep your head, you'll find a way to be of great help to her and to countless others.

AQUARIUS
Jan. 20 – Feb. 18

It looks like a stress-free week for you. Everything goes your way from the traffic lights to the light of your life — that special someone who has seemed so distant lately. He or she will be warming up to you, making your life a lot sweeter.

Wednesday and Thursday are particularly good days to take calculated risks in your financial — and romantic affairs.

PISCES
Feb. 19 – Mar. 20

This week has some good surprises in store for you. Someone who's owed you a big debt for some time finally pays off — with lots of interest.

A letter could come on Wednesday that offers you an unexpected opportunity. But be sure to talk it over with a trusted friend before making a decision.

Lucky foods are green beans and rice.

If your birthday is this week . . .

Mon., February 23 – Sun., March 1

Some really big dreams come true this year, particularly in the area of health and self-improvement.

Your finances take a wonderful upward turn in July and you're finally able to afford that big purchase you've been hoping for.

Someone you meet in September will become one of the best friends you've ever had.

FIELD GRANNY, 90, FOOTBALL

By ALEX MORGAN / Weekly World News

BATON ROUGE, La. — Strong-legged 90-year-old Marybelle Degren made headlines nationwide with her amazing ability to kick 40-yard field goals — and now she's signed a contract to play for an NFL team!

The gutsy granny confirmed that she recently had tryouts with three teams and has signed a pact to join one of them during exhibition games this season. She refused to say which team.

"They made me promise not to tell until they announce it," she said. "But I'll be with them when practice starts, that's for sure."

If the incredible lady makes the team, it will mark the climax of an amazing story that started in 1995 when she broke her hip and was told by doctors she would spend the rest of her life in a wheelchair.

"After they told me that, I started walking and then jogging to work myself back into shape," she said. "Then I found out that kicking a football was a great exercise

Mrs. Degren said she's not bothered by the fact that many people will consider it a publicity stunt if she ever appears in a game.

"The team says I'll add a lot of excitement to a pre-season game," she said. "And that's just fine with me.

"If I can just get out there in front of a stadium full of people and kick one, I'll be pleased as punch," she said. "All I want is one chance to show 'em what I can do."

7 terrific tips to be more productive!

By GARY MYERS / Weekly World News

You can be more productive by freeing yourself from the seven time wasters that make up the word "CULPRIT," says an expert.

Here are the time wasters each letter of the word represents — and tips on how you can overcome each one from psychologist William Knaus, author of the book Do It Now.

C — Clutter. If your bills, your clothes and your tools are so cluttered that finding one of these items is a chore, you're wasting time. File important papers. Organize your closets, cabinets and drawers. Throw away things you don't need. The extra time it takes to get organized will save time in the long run.

U — Unfinished work. When you don't finish something, you waste the time you've spent on it — and waste back burner — and don't start new projects until you've completed the old ones.

L — Lack of trust. Doing everything yourself — from cleaning carpets or putting up wallpaper to writing business reports — can be a waste of time.

Before you start a new task, decide whether it's worth your time — or whether you can trust someone else to you try to do things perfectly. To overcome that, set deadlines. Allow yourself a certain amount of time to plan and complete a project.

R — Recounting. When you talk over every one of your plans, ambitions and goals with your family and friends, you're wasting time. Instead, discuss your ideas only with people who can give you constructive advice.

waste time backtracking to correct them. To overcome that, make a list of the things you'll need before you start a new project. And when you're walking out the door, take a few seconds to make sure you have everything you need.

T — Tenacity. Sticking with a project that's bound to fail is a waste of time. Remember, sometimes you

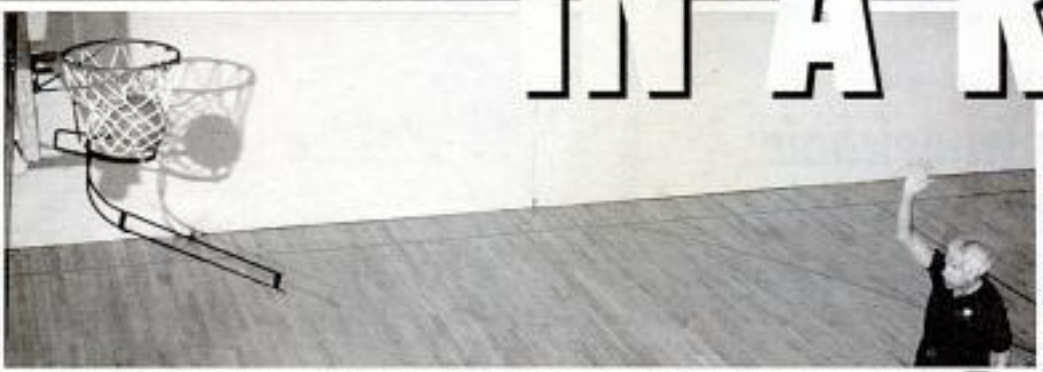
MAN, 74, SINKS 2,750 BASKETS IN A ROW!



SEAL BEACH, Calif. — The world's free-throw champ is not a millionaire pro in the NBA, but an amazing 74-year-old geezer named Tom Amberry who made 2,750 straight baskets.

"If you're going to do something, why not be the best?" said Amberry, a retired podiatrist who took up free-throw shooting as a hobby four years ago.

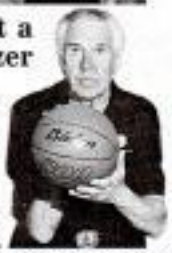
The feisty oldster shocked the sports world and made the Guinness Book of Records on Nov. 15, 1993, with a grueling 12-hour performance that blew away the old record by more than 700 shots.

It wasn't a missed shot that ended Amberry's streak at 2,750. He had to leave the gym because league games were scheduled. "I could have made a bunch more," he remarked.

"I was 'in the zone' as the kids say."

Twenty people witnessed Amberry's incredible feat and signed affidavits later as required by the Guinness folks.

"I felt sorry for them. It must have been very boring watching me shoot. I'm surprised none of them dozed off," said Amberry, who is fit as a fiddle and stands 6-foot-3.



FREE-THROW KING Tom Amberry.

The spry old-timer has appeared on several network TV shows and has been interviewed by national sports magazines since achieving his astounding record.

The NCAA even invited him to perform at its Final Four basketball extravaganza.

And he has taught the art of free-throw shooting at a summer basketball camp.

"Players today don't practice free throws enough," he said. "They're more into dunking the ball and shooting three-pointers.

"It takes concentration to be a good free-throw shooter. You have to be focused on what you're doing. Free throws win ball games. A free-throw is a gift from the referee. A player should take full advantage of it."

Amberry was an 80 percent two-handed free-throw shooter years ago when he played for the University of North Dakota.

But now he shoots one-handed and hits about 98 percent.

"I feel like I can take virtually anybody and make them a good shooter," he said.

All the attention has taken Amberry, his wife, Helen, and their four sons by surprise. "It's something I never anticipated. It's been great," he said modestly.

NEW STUDY:

Men credit brains for their success — but women credit good luck for theirs!

Men and women react to success and failure in strikingly different ways, says a surprising new study.

"Men are far more likely to claim that their successes are a result of their abilities and that their failures are because the job was too difficult," says sociologist Judith Howard.

"Women, however, are more likely to claim that their successes are the result of good luck and their failures are due to a lack of ability.

"Many studies have been done on this. A man, when he succeeds, will take the credit for it."

For example, she said, a salesman who makes a big sale will think to himself: "Well, I'm certainly a good salesman."

But when he fails to make a sale, the same salesman may blame the customer, the competition, the product he's selling or even the economy before he blames himself for his failure.

"On the other hand, if it's a woman who sells thousands of dollars' worth of products on the spot, she's likely to think: 'Well, that was a lucky break,'" said Dr. Howard.

"And if she doesn't make the sale, she's more likely to think: 'I'm just not very good at sales.'"

Strangely, men and women agree with each other's reasons for their successes and failures, Dr. Howard said.

"If a man is successful, a woman will tend to agree with him that it is because he's talented," she said.

"If he fails, the woman will agree with him that the job was just too difficult.

"And if a woman fails at something, men are likely to agree that it's because she just wasn't very good at whatever she was trying to do.

"If she succeeds, men will be likely to agree with her that she succeeded only because she was lucky."
